As a young man (the exact date is unknown) he moved to Liverpool, apparently in order to break free from the control of his domineering mother. It is presumed that he worked as a baker during his stay in Liverpool, but this has not yet been confirmed. It was here that he married Hannah Scott on the 30th of June, 1839. The couple made application for an assisted passage to Australia (No 5504, dated the 20th of July, 1839).
